Bar Trivia Fundraiser Guide

Holding Bar Trivia Fundraising Events is a great way to engage a local businesses, outreach to people you might not normally, and gain funds and visibility for your agency. This Guide provides you with guidelines for holding an event, possible general trivia questions broken-up into rounds, and specific trivia questions that focus on issues related to sexual assault. Please don't hesitate to contact CCASA staff with any questions about holding a Bar Trivia event in your community.

A Note about Content

Since the trivia questions provided include content related to sexual assault, be sure to talk with your audience at the beginning of the night about how this may affect them.

- Let them know who the victim advocates are that they can talk to if they need support or resources. Because sexual assault is both a prevalent crime but also highly unreported, audience members may know someone or have experienced sexual assault themselves but never disclosed. It is never too late to seek support and heal. Hearing about sexual assault tonight may bring up a memory or feelings that you didn't expect. Let them know that it is never too late to start the healing process.
- Also, make a note that sexual violence is a serious crime and not a joking matter, so please be respectful of all who are in the room and set a positive tone for the night.

Fundraising

- We have seen success with events that charge $5 per person to join the trivia game, regardless of how many people are in a team. You could opt to charge per team, as well, if you are able to designate ahead of time that teams are 5 people, for example.
- Collect money at the door.
- To make the game more interesting, you could allot a percentage of the "pot" (the money collected at the door) to go to the winning team. This could be 30 or 40% of the "pot." In many games, the winning team then donates the money back to the benefitting agency, but that is not always the case.
- You may opt to add a giveaway component to the trivia game. If so, you can give each person one or two tickets when they pay their $5 fee, and let them know that you will call ticket numbers throughout the night and they can have the chance to win one of the giveaway prizes if they are present. Agency giveaways have ranged from free beers from the establishment and agency t-shirts to ski passes, etc.
- You may also opt to walk through the audience periodically throughout the night, in between rounds, and ask for donations to your agency (this would not go into the overall "pot" if you are providing a percentage of the "pot" to the winning team). This is a direct donation to your agency.

What to Bring

- Tickets for the giveaways, a few baskets for collecting the tickets & donations, envelopes for the money (2 separate ones for the buy-in and the donations since the donations are separate and the cash prize only comes from the buy-in money), receipt book, prizes and agency brochures.

Build Awareness about Your Agency

- What to include about our agency in your introduction:
  - Short statement about what you do

- Volunteer opportunities to get involved
- Website for more info and donations

About the Trivia Points System

You may design your trivia game however you choose, and considering your options with the points system is one key aspect of the game. We recommend a simple points system that collects one point per correct question and does not subtract point for incorrect answers. This will make your job in calculating the winner more simple and less time consuming.

We recommend taking a minute after each round to collect score sheets and update the audience on the leading teams. Because this creates some “down time,” we have included a visual “bonus round” score sheet that teams can work on during these breaks in the game. These breaks are also an excellent time for your agency staff or volunteers to talk about what you do, provide information about sexual violence (for example, statistics about prevalence), etc.

If you have questions about how to use the score sheets provided in this Guide or about scoring the rounds, please contact CCASA’s Outreach Coordinator at 303-839-9999 or outreach@ccasa.org.

Outreach in Your Community

- Consider approaching establishments where you or a staff person may have already developed a relationship with the owner or staff.
- Talk to them about the benefits of having the event.

Advertising

- CCASA will provide you with a template flyer that you can enter your info into and print copies for distribution.
- You may also want to use social media like Facebook (create an event on your FB page).
- Be sure the event is on your website and that information goes out at the bar and in key locations throughout your town.

Sexual Assault-Specific Trivia Rounds

These rounds take general topics and draw on a correlation they have with an issue related to sexual assault. These are designed to fit within a game and, therefore, do not touch on serious issues that your agency might discuss in a presentation. Still, reference to sexual assault can be triggering for people, so please review the “Note about Content” at the beginning of this Guide to best prepare your audience.
